

The extended session of the student scientific club “Erudite” was held on November 11, 2016 as a part of the Moscow scientific conference “Student Science”, supported by the Moscow government, Moscow Student Center, Council of Moscow and Moscow region Vice-Rectors. The event was organized by the Chair of Customs Economics. The attendees discussed the most actual and problematic issues of the Russian economy on 2016.

The session was participated by the students from the Faculty of Economics and students from other universities, such as Russian Presidential Academy of National Economy and Public Administration, Moscow Automobile and Road Construction State Technical University and Moscow Power Engineering Institute.

The speakers delivered reports on the following themes:

- Marketing in Russia: current state and development prospects;
- Problems of small business development in Russia and abroad;
- The modern economy: current issues, innovations and development trends;
- Economics, organization and management of enterprises, industries and complexes;
- Economic aspects of import substitution policies.

the number of people who are interested in the club's activities is growing, and they will be able to

